He divides his subject subject--I perceive his distinctions. Nothing Chap. perplexed; nothing insipid; nothing languid. He unfolds the web of his argument--I am enthralled. He refutes the sophism--I am freed. He introduces a pertinent narrative--I am interested. He modulates his voice-- I am charmed. He is jocular--I smile. He presses me with serious truths--I yield to their force. He addresses the passions-- the tears glide down my cheeks. He raises his voice in anger--I tremble and wish myself away. Of the particular subjects of discussion which engaged the attention of Lorenzo and his associates in their interview at the convent of San Gallo, Valor i has left some account which he derived from the information of Mariano himself. The existence and attributes of the Deity, the insufficiency of temporal enjoyments to fill the mind, and the probability and moral necessity of a future state, were to Lorenzo the favourite objects of his discourse. His own opinion was pointedly expressed. He is dead - even to this life, said Lorenzo, who has no hopes of another V Although Valor. in vita, p. 48. Chap. / Although the citizens of Florence admired VIII. the talents, and respected the virtues of Mariano, Giroiamo their attention was much more forcibly excited by a preacher of a very different character, who possessed himself of their confidence, and entitled himself to their homage, by foretelling their destruction. This was the famous Girol amo Savonarola, who afterwards acted so...
